CHIKANKARI EXHIBITION, IN COLLABORATION WITH FABINDIA Mrunal's Boutique

Chikankari exhibition is an intricate embroidery style using white untwisted yarn on white muslin fabric. The word 'chikankari' is derived from the word 'chakeen' meaning 'elegant'. It is a 17th century delicate embroidery technique from Awadh that uses floral and geometric patterns creating mesmerising fabrics.

10.30am to 7pm

Mrunal's Boutique associates with Fabindia

Fabindia was established in 1960 to realise the founder's dream of working with Indian artisans and their craft, helping them produce and market high quality, contemporary designed products borne out of their skill and craftsmanship.

Fabindia continues to carry forward that vision, working with craft clusters, micro and small enterprises across the country. When you buy a Fabindia product, you provide encouragement and support a way of life for the rural artisan, helping preserve India's rich heritage and traditions.

Mrunal's Boutique provides an opportunity to experience that culture, here in Oman, in collaboration with Fabindia.

It is presenting the Chikankari exhibition, which is an intricate embroidery style, traditionally done with exquisite delicacy of details, using white untwisted yarn on white muslin fabric.

The word Chikankari is derived from the word 'chakeen' meaning 'elegant', is a 17th century exquisite delicate embroidery technique from Awadh using floral and geometric patterns creating mesmerising fabrics.

Do not miss this opportunity to see Fabindia's affordable collection in Muscat.

For more information, contact Mrunal's Boutique on 24567599 or mrunalsboutique@mosaic.om.

The collection will be available on March 2 and 3 from 10.30am to 7pm.
